LDAPCon 2015

The 5th International Conference on LDAP (LDAPCon) will take place in Edinburgh from 11th to 13th November 2015.

LDAPCon is a technical forum for IT professionals interested in LDAP and related topics like directory servers, directory management applications, directory integration, identity and access management, and meta directories.

It focuses on the implementation and integration of LDAP servers and LDAP-enabled client applications. The event will bring together vendors, developers, active and prospective LDAP practitioners to share their experiences about deployment strategies, service operations and interoperability, to discuss LDAP usage in new projects and to learn about upcoming trends and developments.

The conference attracts 70-80 delegates from all over the world, including the central figures in the development teams of many well-known products. It will be held in the University of Edinburgh School of Informatics Forum, a new landmark building near the centre of the city. There will be one day of tutorials and two of technical papers, with a conference dinner in a spectacular city-centre venue on the second evening.
